4. As per claim 1 and dependent claims 2-4 and 12, the examiner found no reference in the prior art that disclosed or made obvious a method comprising the step(s) of: based on a corrected estimated average mass computed, taking an action chosen from the group consisting of: scanning at least one of a plurality of voxels at a higher resolution; performing a NRF scan of at least one of a plurality of voxels; scanning at least one of a plurality of voxels with another scanning method; displaying in an input device an image of at least a part of a target to an operator and notifying the operator by means of an output device of a potential threat and including all limitations recited in independent claim 1.
5. As per claim 6 and dependent claims 7 and 13, the examiner found no reference in the prior art that disclosed or made obvious a method comprising the step(s) of: based on probable average atomic number determined, taking an action chosen from the group consisting of: scanning a voxel at a higher resolution; performing a NRF scan of a voxel; scanning a voxel with another scanning method; displaying in an input device an image of at least a part of a target to an operator and notifying the operator of a potential threat and including all limitations recited in independent claim 6.

6. As per claim 8 and dependent claims 9-11 and 14, the examiner found no reference in the prior art that disclosed or made obvious method comprising the step(s) of: taking further action based on the masses and average atomic numbers determined, the further action chosen from the group consisting of: scanning at least one of a plurality of voxels at a higher resolution; performing a NRF scan of at least one of a plurality of voxels; scanning at least one of a plurality of voxels with another scanning method; displaying in an input device an image of at least a part of a target to an operator and notifying the operator that suspicious material may be present and including all limitations recited in independent claim 8.

7. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
